3rd Annual Play Day Scheduled At Central Playground Tuesday

The third annual Play Day will be held at Central Playground next Tuesday morning at 10:15.

The morning event will feature many field and track events for boys and girls of many ages.

Nine divisions have been set up in the field events, based on age, and including events for both mothers and fathers. These include the rubber ball race, candy kiss scramble, balloon stepping contest, shoe scramble, sack race, cup race, horse and rider race, blindfold race, hop, step and jump, guessing, clothespins, balloon bursting and softball throw.

The track events, with six age divisions, feature the 25, 30, 40, 50, 60 and 70 yard dashes.

Contestants in the track events will be trying to break some records established by other youngsters in the past two years.

In the 25-yard dash, ages 4-5-6, Julie Leslie of Ballardvale set a record of five seconds, and Arthur Yancy of Central, 5.2 seconds. The 30-yard dash for 7-8 year olds was won by Rene Dubocq of West Center, 5.6 and Dave Murphy, Central, 5 seconds.

Alice O'Connor and Neal Des-Roches, both of Central, set records in the 40-yard dash for boys and girls 11-12, with times of 6.8 and 6.3 seconds. The 50-yard dash record was set by Claudia Sandberg, Central, 7.8 and Ronald McKay, Central, 7.3 seconds.

Bill Vickers set the 60-yard record, 7.8; and Barbara Williams established the 70-yard dash mark, 10.3.

During the past week, many activities have been held at the playgrounds, with the following results:

Central
Central Playground issued a challenge last Friday, following a bubble gum contest that found one young man blowing a bubble literally the size of his head.

David Buck, competing in the nine-year-old group, won first prize, then defeated five other contestants for the gold ribbon award. The Playground staff and David challenge any other youngster in the playground system to produce a larger bubble.

In the age groups, the following winners were announced: Six and under, Joseph Buck, Susan Wilson and Martha Ross; seven years, Wanda Batchelder, Nancy Buck, Richard McAtamney; eight, Donald Anderson, Jack Wilson and Leslie Holland; nine, David Buck, Nancy O'Connor and Stephen Tetrault; 10-years, James Franz, James

Urban Renewal Plan On Move

The Andover Housing Authority is looking for applicants for site acquisition and re-use appraisers in connection with the proposed urban renewal project.

Acting-director David MacDonald Jr. said a meeting of the Authority will be held Aug. 8, when applications will be considered for these posts.

The Authority also is looking for applicants for the full-time director's job, which pays $7,500 annually. MacDonald described the qualifications as including a knowledge of real estate, ability to cope with the considerable detailed work accompanying such a project, and a personality that will enable the director to speak before groups and to individuals about the project.

Actually, he said, the project is being handled slowly - with the hope

Andover is being considered by one of the top commercial real estate firms as the site for a manufacturing plant of national reputation - but to date, the firm has not made any recommendations to its client on specific sites.

The R. M. Bradley Co. of Boston has been surveying a number of Massachusetts communities to find a site that satisfies the demands of this national concern, specially in the availability of water.

One of the major specifications is that one to two million gallons of municipal water - and perhaps the same amount of underground, pond or river water - be available as the manufacturing plant expands.

Initially specified as a plant of 200-300,000 square feet, employing 2-300 persons, the plant probably will reach a maximum size of one million square feet, with 2,000-2,500 employees.

Some 50 acres have been designated for the initial site, but the expanded facility might require up to 150 acres.

Seek Educator For Vacancy

Officials of New Haven, Conn., ended a three-year search, when they retained the professional services of Dr. John P. Gaaney as associate superintendent in that community.

Dr. Milton J. Meyers, chairman of the School Committee, indicated this week that all possible speed will be taken to replace Dr. Gaaney.

In the absence of Supt. Edward I. Erickson, he has asked Harvard and Boston University for names of possible candidates, so that they may be interviewed when Erickson returns from vacation.

Dr. Meyers said he had talked with two members of the Committee who are out of town and had their approval for this action.

Dr. Gaaney, assistant to Supt. Edward I. Erickson, will fill a newly-created position in the Connecticut city. He will have broad executive duties throughout the

New Haven's school population is approximately 22,000, with a staff of some 1,100 persons.

There are three assistant superintendents and several directors in specific fields. Dr. Gainey will be second-in-command.

He came to Andover in September of 1958, having previously served on the staff of the Center for Field Studies at Harvard University.

Dr. Gainey's resignation, tendered to Supt. Erickson, is effective Sept. 2.

In accepting the new assignment, Dr. Gainey stressed the increased professional opportunity in the new position.

At the same time, he publicly lauded the Andover School Committee for its interest and the hard work of its members. He believes that Andover is "on the move" educationally, in many areas, and that the staff is receptive to them.

He predicted a bright future for education in Andover, where the community, he said, has demonstrated a willingness to support it.

Dr. Gainey received his doctorate at Harvard, where he also took his Master's degree. He has taught in the public schools of Lexington and was, for a time, assistant professor of education at the state university in New York.

Bookmobile Has Active Record

A ninety-year-old woman in Bedford waiting confidently in February sleet for the Bookmobile to appear along an icy road (it did - on time) and a nine-year-old boy in Newbury depositing his books at the Bookmobile counter with a cheerful "I'm cashing these in for more!" ... these are but two of the many incidents which dramatize the value of Bookmobile visits to 27 towns in northeast Massachusetts.

The Bookmobile is one of several services offered by the state's Northeast Regional Library Center. Located at 133 Main st., North Reading, the Center is a branch of the Division of Library Extension, Massachusetts Department of Education.

Mrs. Rachel M. Sullivan is librarian at the Center. Bookmobile librarian is Mrs. Marjorie E. Haselton, and clerk-chauffeur is Rene Faucher. Other staff members are Mrs. Eleanor Puglia and Mrs. Lucille Bernardin.

The Center's annual report, covering the period from July 1, 1959, to June 30, 1960, indicates that more and more people are enjoying good books. During the period total circulation showed an increase of 41 per cent over the previous year. Adult non-fiction increased 54 per cent in circulation, and juvenile non-fiction almost 25 per cent. The Center's total collection of 10,310 books circulated 163,843 times, an average of 10 times per book.

Nighthawk Moves Into City As Humans Leave

While today's cliffdweller is forsaking his city apartment for a home in Suburbia, one bird is reversing the trend, says Boston's Museum of Science.

It's the handsome but little known nighthawk, a bird that has taken its country habits and adapted them to city life.

Like many a city resident, the nighthawk is often heard by its neighbors but seldom seen. You've probably heard one yourself on many a warm summer evening. Next time you walk down a city street, listen for a plaintive nasal call, like a high-pitched "peent". Look up quickly and you may see a bird with long pointed wings, darting back and forth through the night sky catching insects. If the bird is large with a two-foot wingspread and has a prominent patch of white on each wing, then it is certain to be a nighthawk.

Unlike some birds, the nighthawk doesn't seem to mind the noisy confusion and bright lights of crowded areas. There are good reasons for its ready adjustment.

One is that the bright city lights attract insects by the thousands, and the nighthawk feeds on insects only, catching them on the wing.

The second is that the flat rooftops of apartment and office buildings, often covered with gravel and pebbles, make perfect nesting areas for the bird, being much like the gravel beds it nests on in the wild.

The nighthawk's name is a misnomer. According to the Museum's Director of Education Norman D. Harris, it isn't a hawk but a relative of the gentle whippoorwill; and it doesn't confine itself to nighttime flying, but can also be seen in the early evening before darkness sets in.

Even its nickname, "bullbat," doesn't fit it. A bat is a mammal and not a bird at all.

The nighthawk resembles some hawks, the falcons, in at least one respect: it has long pointed wings. Beyond that, it has tiny feet instead of killer's claws. In place of a hooked beak, it has a large, almost grotesque mouth opening from ear to ear, which it uses to catch insects — as many as 500 a night!

An accomplished acrobat, the nighthawk is known for its unusual flying antics. Sometimes, when it gets up to a dizzy height, it suddenly folds up its wings, and plummets downward at jet-like speeds. Just as it seems sure to crash, it opens its wings and zooms upwards again with an eerie, "booming" sound. While these dive-bomber tactics may have some good reason behind them, they are more probably just in "fun".

The nighthawk can also be an actor. If you surprise a baby bird at its nest, it may try to menace you by pretending to attack, with wings spread and mouth open wide. If you get too near a nest of eggs, the adult bird will try to lure you away by going into the "broken wing" act. It rakishly folds up one wing and hobbles about, as though injured. Chances are, the "sick bird" you glimpse on a rooftop is a nighthawk up to its old tricks.

Actor, acrobat, insect-catcher, this bird is one of the city's most unusual nature sights. Unfortunately, hunters often mistake it for a true hawk and try to kill it, despite the fact that hawks and nighthawks are both protected by law.

Irony, isn't it, that this bird's natural enemy, man, builds a brightly lighted city home for himself and tops it with a flat gravel roof just right for a nighthawk. Maybe that's why someone once described the bird's call as a "Bronx cheer".

All-Stars Chosen In Rec. League

The Ballardvale Bobcats emerged as double winners in the Andover Recreation Baseball League, as they clinched the league title and went on to win the playoffs with a sparkling 4-2 victory over the North Main Street Tigers at the Playstead last Friday evening. The Chestnut Street Cougars and Shawsheen Wildcats placed third and fourth in the final standings.

Coaches' All-Star selections were: Bobcats — Dave Dimlich, Harry Dustin, John Gallant, and Kevin Lynch; Tigers — George Chetson, Jim Early, and Art Yancy; Cougars — Rick Abbott, Craig Connolly, and Rick Ross; Wildcats — Tom Coffman, Pete DeAngelo, and Alan O'Reilly.

Plans are now under way for a three game series between the All-Stars and the Andover Junior League team to be played at the Playstead during the week of Aug. 8. Dates will be announced as soon as Junior League play-off commitments are known.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Merrimack Is Growing

The Augustinian Fathers at Merrimack College are great builders. They build intellectually, spiritually, and physically.

Since the college was incorporated only a few years ago, construction men have been on the job almost constantly.

A drive through the suburban campus on a summer day shows that the building program is still very much in progress.

New dormitories for men and girl students are now nearing completion. These new facilities will provide much needed conveniences for the ever growing student body.

The girls' dormitory was especially needed. Men students adjusted themselves to living in private homes in the community more easily than did the young women who enrolled at Merrimack. On campus living will also serve to attract students from far off points, providing a much greater exchange of social experiences.

Merrimack is expanding all the time. The new dormitories are somewhat apart from the main cluster of academic buildings and serve to give the campus a broader appearance.

The Augustinian Fathers are to be congratulated on their never ending efforts to better the young men and women of the Merrimack Valley and other areas who come under their direction.

Over And Over Again

Millions of Americans lost a lot of sleep during a couple of weeks in July while glued to television screens watching the Democratic and Republican National conventions.

The historic events are now over, but the memory of the television coverage lingers on.

The TV networks did their best to make the programs entertaining, even at times when the proceedings in the crowded arenas were dull and boring. But some of these efforts were a bit trying on the nerves of those who sat before television sets.

Every notable who came in range of a television camera was supposed to have something new to say. These interviews went on endlessly and with great repetition.

Whenever a VIP arrived in town, he was met with a battery of microphones and asked a barrage of questions. As he pushed his way along through the crowd, the interviewers followed.

Inside the hotel lobby, there was more of the same. When he got off an elevator on an upper floor, the cameras and the questioners were there again.

Typical of the treatment was that given to Vice President Nixon. He was surrounded in his hotel suite by the TV, movie and still cameramen. Once out in the hall, the scene was repeated, the same old questions were popped at him from all sides. When he walked off the elevator there were more pictures, more questions.

Like the other big men at the conventions, he showed great patience. But those at home were getting pretty tired of it all. The only relief came from the commercials.

Seems a better script can be written for these big shows.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago - August, 1910

Nathan C. Hamblin principal of Tabor Academy, Marion, Mass., has been secured for the principalship of the Pynchard School to succeed Principal Curtis who has resigned to become principal of the Milton High School.

Congressman Butler Ames and his secretary, Joseph Legare were in town on Tuesday afternoon and made an extended call on his political manager, Postmaster Arthur Bliss.

Catch basins of a larger and better design have been placed on Locke Street where the rush of water has for a long time been such a serious problem.

One of the new books added during July at the Memorial Hall library was Atkinson's "Mushrooms, edible, poisonous, etc."

Sportsmen commented that it was good to see the Cricket Club again showing signs of life. They have a good team organized, have built a simple house for shelter, and attract to their grounds good weekly crowds.

25 Years Ago - August, 1935

The coming week will be the last week of the E.R.A. After next week all federal-local relief projects will be handled through the W.P.A. with the U. S. employment service supplying the labor and the local department heads supervising the job.

A group of employees of the Marland Mills spinning room enjoyed a fishing trip to Beverly last Saturday.

The British Empire War Veterans will hold their annual picnic at Howard's Grove, Big Island Pond. A fine program of sports has been arranged both for children and adults. The feature of the day will be the tug of war between British and Canadians and as each side has won once, much interest has been worked up over the rubber match. A silver loving cup will be awarded to the winning side.

The first real construction work has been started on the Jr. high school gymnasium. With the outside walls of the school complete, the boilers in the boiler house and the framework of the auditorium erected, yet nothing except excavating had been done on the gymnasium.

10 Years Ago - August, 1950

Rain Tuesday put an end to the heavy drought on the Town's water supply at Haggett's Pond which was down 47-1/2 inches below normal and from which a record number of 67,329,000 gallons was pumped during July. Although the prolonged dry spell of two months was beginning to be felt in other communities where water conservation methods were put into effect, the situation here was not considered serious. The drop to 47-1/2 inches below normal is about a foot lower than it was a year ago at this time. The extreme low point last year was 57 inches below normal which came later in the summer, yet no restrictions were placed upon sprinkling or other use of water.

Over 600 members of St. Augustine's parish joined Tuesday night in a testimonial and reception to the Rev. Matthew F. McDonald, O.S.A. who on August 2 celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. For this occasion all societies of the parish united in a general committee to sponsor the affair which was so large that the school hall and the class rooms had to be used to accommodate the assembly.

July rainfall in Andover was 1.96 inches according to the records of Fire Ranger John Campbell at the observation tower on Holt's hill. This was far short of the average for the month and was causing a water shortage and adding to the forest fire hazard in many parts of the state.

Public welfare costs have increased for the first six months of the year, according to figures compiled from the records of Arthur W. Cole, town welfare and old age assistance agent. Although the total payments were well above those of a similar period in 1949, the increased cost to the town has not been excessive due chiefly to the federal and state grants.

The annual competitive water carnival of Pomp's bathing beach was held before a crowd estimated at 1800, one of the largest ever assembled at the beach.

Summer Hours

The library will be open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The Children's room on those days will be open from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Both departments will be closed on Saturdays.

The Ballardvale branch is open as usual, Mondays and Thursdays, from 2-5 and 6-8 p.m.

Recent Books

Among the books added to the library in recent weeks are the following, any of which may be borrowed, or reserved: Fiction titles: Memento Mori, Spark - the confusion that reigns when a number of persons receive phone calls which state "Remember, you must die!" The Absence Of A Cello, Wallach - the role of a scientist in business today; The Little Karoo, Smith - one of the recent books which should be read by those who enjoy superlative writing; the author sets her plots in her own South Africa; The Inspector, Hartog - an epic journey of a Dutch inspector and a young Jewish girl as they try to get to Palestine; The Disinherited, Del Castillo - the setting is the Spanish Civil War, and the plot involves three young men who become Communists; Night-shade, Miller - an entire family is dominated by an overpowering father until the members come to believe that anyone who marries into the family is in for bad luck; Sail A Crooked Ship, Benchley - a novel of high seas adventure going up the Hudson river, with much good humor involved; Imperial Caesar, Warner - here are the last fifteen years of Caesar's life; Set This House On Fire, Styron - a story that stresses the conflict of good and evil; Leviathan, Tute - a novel about the building of Leviathan, the mightiest liner, and about the people involved in setting her afloat; The Last Gentleman, Barker - good, historical tale of the last Tory governor of New Hampshire who had to face the results of his divided loyalty; To Kill A Mockingbird, Lee - the growing up of a child in Alabama, during the times of the depression. Non-fiction titles which will find interested readers include these: Hollywood Rajah, Mayer - this biography of a Haverhill, boy who became one of the greatest of Hollywood's tycoons, is fascinating reading for the movie-minded reader; The Lost Cities Of Africa, Davidson - it has been proven that there was a highly developed civilization in Africa; here is that story; Perle, My Story, Mesta - a biography that is overwhelmingly varied as it tells the story of a woman rancher, social leader, crusader, party worker, etc.; Love And Death In The American Novel, Fiedler - an attempt to understand the limitation and strength of American fiction as shown in the writings from 1789 to the present; Garden And Patio Building Book, Sunset - several Sunset publications have been put into one large book, ideal for the home owner who believes in the outdoor living room plan; My Road To Berlin, Brandt - autobiography of the Mayor of Berlin and the story of his beloved city; this is a dramatic story of a boy who fled Germany after Hitler came to power, lived in Norway, then returned to rescue his home country, although Norway had offered him a post as Ambassador to Paris; Communist China And Asia, Barnett - a book for thoughtful reading, showing the challenge to American policy. The author was born in China, and since World War II he has devoted his efforts to studying the situation there. He was in Peking when the Communists came into power there and stayed under Communist rule for seven months.

Other good non-fiction titles are A Doctor In Many Lands, Castellani; Fiorello, a play by Bock, based on La Guardia; Hawthorne's Tragic Vision, Male; 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Johnson; How To Build Garden Structures, Aul; Best Sport Stories, 1960; Collected Essays, Tate. (The Library has a long playing recording of Allen Tate, reading his own poems.)

Subject Of Interest

Several important events have been given recognition in the library this month, with small selections of books about each, put on display: Latin America and Cuba, the African situation, a collection of books on "Politics, 1960", and collections of the works of two authors who have just died, John Phillips Marquand and Belamy Partridge.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:

"The Townsman reports that the School Building Committee is deep in the plans for giving Andover the best possible school this time around.

"The Committee is reported as planning to visit all types of school buildings in order to plan the most efficient for Andover. Also, it's going to hire an architectural firm. Those are essential steps but, for Andover, there are some pit falls in them.

"One - within 75 miles of Andover there is not too much variety in the constructional features of the schools available for inspection, even though they may be multi-story, single story or campus type of schools. Most are of the extreme luxury type; Brick and mortar, country club type of social rooms for the esoteric inclined, and a general decor too different from that in which the pupil spends most of his formative time.

"Two - during this period, relying on most architectural firms is as costly as it would be to ask an automobile maker who makes nothing but luxury cars to determine for you what kind of automobile your next one should be.

"Three - because this implied policies of Andover are to convert the town into a city with as much haste as possible, it's certain that building a new school shall increase our school problems. House building speculators will at once capitalize on the civic costs, paid by the citizens, and over-build, thus making other schools necessary. Consequently, effort should be made to use a type of building whose plans can be used at least three times more. The steel companies have such plans.

"Four - in order to encourage economy in Town Hall, any time is a good time to start cutting down on luxury items for the benefit of the help, thus setting an example that can be useful in all departments of our public affairs. For example, we can hardly expect, say the police, to economize by using the new and efficient smaller cars for their work while we go on endowing the workers in the school department with the most costly of rest time appointments, etc.

"It's hoped that this school building committee shall, indeed, give the town something economical.

IN MEMORIAM

Kate Plummer Jenkins

With the death of "Miss Kate" as she was known to all who loved her, something very precious has gone out of Andover's life; she has left a heritage that will keep her memory alive for those of us who have never known a time when she was not with us. We remember her for her loving friendship, and especially for her love of young people; her appreciation and joy of all forms of beauty was heart-warming and a blessing to others; because of her keen mind she never lost interest in local, national and even international events.

Miss Kate's education was typical of the time in which she lived. As a little girl she attended Mrs. Edward's Dame School, not far from her home. Later she entered Abbot Academy, of which her mother had been an alumna. Then followed an European tour, as was the custom of that day; and her memory of that experience was a source of great joy to her as long as she lived.

Early in life she became interested in many activities for the improvement of our town. She was a pioneer in the organization and work of the Andover Guild, and her example of beautiful womanhood was an inspiration to those of us who came under her influence. For many years she was a loyal and active member of the November Club. Her membership in the South Congregational Church was one of devotion and of unwavering interest. The Andover Historical Society, of which she was a charter member and a generous donor, was especially dear to her heart.

In later years her life was more simple, serene and cheerful due to the affectionate care of her long-time companion, and of her devoted niece, who survives her.

Miss Kate passed on into eternal life from the home where she had lived since her birth. As she was laid to rest in the South Church yard, the warmth and light of the sun and the fragrance and beauty of the floral tributes were symbolic of the benediction of our every memory of her.

Dear friends,

We are sure the average citizen would be surprised to know how much equipment the modern funeral director must have.

We are constantly adding to this equipment to further improve our service. Much of this additional investment is not apparent to the public, but it is nonetheless essential if we are to keep our service up to the high standards we have set.

Respectfully,

Donald E. Lundgren

Crabgrass Stopped In Its Tracks

Hard to believe you can kill crabgrass and have fun doing it? Not after you've used CLOUT®. It destroys big, tough crabgrass plants as easily as the little ones. A Scott's Spreader applies CLOUT evenly, accurately. Just fill the Spreader with CLOUT, set the dial at 7, walk the lawn (and dodge the bullets). Takes only half an hour, fun and all.

More and more folks are coming to us for advice on improving their lawns through an easy-to-follow Scott's Program. Come in anytime. We'll be glad to prescribe the correct Program for your lawn.

Mrs. Rollins Given Birthday Party

Mrs. Ernest Rollins of Clark rd. was tendered a birthday party at the meeting of the Golden Age Circle held Monday, July 25, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wormwood of Lowell Junction rd.

Consult

about this question:

"On vacation or weekend trips, the personal belongings we take along and the ones we leave behind are both vulnerable to theft, loss or damage. We are also apt to injure someone in sports and play. Does the new Homeowners Policy cover our belongings at home or away and provide family liability coverage as well?"

DOUGLAS N. HOWE
52 Main St. Tel. GR 5-5100

The table was prettily decorated with a floral centerpiece and a birthday cake. Mrs. Rollins was presented with a gift.

Those present included Mrs. Edna Laffin, Mrs. Anna Hess, Mrs. James Moss, Mrs. Myra Ward, Mrs. Frank Ward, Mrs. Rollins and Mrs. Wormwood.

Miss Margaret Danielson of Cutler rd., is spending the week with her family at Surry, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Coffey and their family of High Plain rd. have returned from a vacation trip to Eastham.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Szabo of Shawsheen rd. spent the weekend at Alton Bay, N. H.

Cynthia and Diana Lewis of Kirkland dr. are enjoying the week with their friends, Christine and Karen Hill, at the summer home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hill, Washington, N. H.

that it can be presented to a March town meeting in 1962.

This will give the Authority and the personnel a chance to thoroughly explain the proposals as they are made, and to present the entire proposal to all municipal boards and officials well before a town meeting.

The firm of Candeb and Fleissig has been retained to draw up a workable plan - an effort paid for by government funds.

This plan, when completed, is the one that will be considered carefully prior to town meeting discussion and action. If the town adopts the plan, it will pay a proportionate share of its cost. If the plan is not adopted, there is no cost to the town.

MacDonald said surveyors from the consulting firm will be in the town soon to begin work on the plan.

As ideas and sections of the plan are developed, he promised, townspeople will be thoroughly informed and given a chance to understand them.

MacDonald pointed out that only a detailed discussion of all parts of the plan can result in acceptance by the voters. Anything short of this, he warned, can result in rumors, impressions and half-truths being accepted as facts by the men and women who will eventually vote on the proposals. The urban renewal area includes, generally, the center of town including the main business district.

Slightly over $62,000 has been appropriated by the government for the planning stage, which is now about to begin.

ANDOVER LOCATION BEING STUDIED

said the manufactured product is 90 percent for commercial use, and thus is not in any way geared to government contracts.

Whether Andover will continue on the list of prime locations will be determined within two or three weeks, as the results of the firm's survey are tabulated. Eventually, the spokesman said, about a dozen or 15 locations will be selected, and then these will be narrowed down to two or three for consideration by the national firm.

Several area publications have given some prominence to the firm's survey recently, including the identification of the national concern as the Polaroid Co. However, the R. M. Bradley spokesman said the firm can neither confirm nor deny the identity.

Joseph B. Doherty, secretary of the local Industrial and Development Commission, met with the firm's representatives when they visited Andover. Water Department Supt. Donald Bassett also sat in, and thoroughly explained the community's water situation.

Mr. Doherty said the realty firm was impressed with the over-all water plan, and some discussion was held on the possibility of moving up the time schedule for providing water from Fish Brook.

It also was indicated that the firm's use of water will leave it as pure as when it enters the plant, making it possible to use pond or river water without contaminating the original source.
